- Billing

Billing is done on the 1st of each month that your son is in the program. Full tuition is billed for the first month no matter what day of the month your admission falls on.

Pro-rated days when entering the program during the month will be credited to you in the 12th month of your son's stay.

We strive to provide an excellent service at an efficient cost. Therefore, we do not do 'billing' in the traditional sense. This would require a full time billing clerk, postage, printing, and a collection agency.

Instead, we use electronic billing – PayPal. This allows us to have tuition fees paid from any major credit card. All you need is an email address. You do not need a PayPal account.

This allows convenient, timely revenue collection and easy accountability for us. For you, it allows for cash flow flexibility, convenience, accurate records of payments, and consumer protection services through PayPal.

You have the option of using different cards or accounts for different fees if you wish.

- Clothing and Personal Items

Upon acceptance into the program, a list of items necessary for admission will be given to you. As you well know, teens grow-up. Your son may need additional items as time passes. When you wish, you can wait until visits and take your son shopping for these items. Or, we can arrange for a staff member to take your son shopping as needed. Either way, this will be an expense to plan for.

- Medical Expenses and Co-payments

You will be responsible for all of your son's medical expenses. When your medical plan has a co-payment for doctor visits, emergency hospitalizations, or prescription drugs, you are responsible to pay for these. This is a difficult expense to plan for, because there is no way of knowing if your son is going to get sick or need emergency care. As a general guideline, consider what your son's medical needs in recent years have been. When needed, we will deduct fees from your son's incidental student fund and ask that you reimburse that cost at month's end.

- The Family Workshops

In July, November and March, the Family Workshops are held. These are two day workshops. There is a fee for three of these workshops built into your admissions fee.

Any additional Family Workshop that you attend after the first three are $250.00. This does not include lodging, meals or transportation. Materials are provided.

This initial fee that is built into your admissions is required even if circumstances prevent your attendance, so do plan accordingly. We will give you scheduled dates as early as possible so you may plan your travel schedule.

- Travel and Lodging

This expense includes airfare, rental cars, activities, hotels and meals related to visits, holidays, or family sessions. These expenses can add up quickly when you are not prepared.

However, with smart planning and forethought these expenses can be managed.
